

Suite Success

Scotwood Interiors, the interior fit-out and office refurbishment specialists, has just completed a fit out of a suite of meeting rooms for long-standing client, Royal London Group, in the company's offices at Queen Street, Edinburgh.

The 14-week project involved stripping out the existing air conditioning, partitions and flooring and the creation of ten new meeting spaces of varying sizes, with folding screens to increase flexibility.

Walnut panels, timber veneered ceilings and glass walls create a sophisticated environment, while designer curtains and wallpaper, digital prints and bright soft furnishings lend a modern twist.

"The Scotwood team did a great job delivering this work," said Craig Yule, Facilities Manager at Royal London Group. "They managed to complete a very tight programme on time despite long lead times for some of the products chosen. We are delighted with the finish and the service provided by Scotwood."

This project follows the fit out of four other floors as part of a year-long project to refurbish Royal London's Head Office. Royal London Group is the UK's largest mutual life and pensions company.
